

The Gamadji Program (18–25)

The Gamadji Program is an extension of the REAL Program. Designed specifically for Indigenous youth aged 18–25, this program delivers a range of professional experiences over a 12-month period. As an Ambassador of the Korin Gamadji Institute, the young people will have the opportunity to attend a range of Richmond Football Club events.

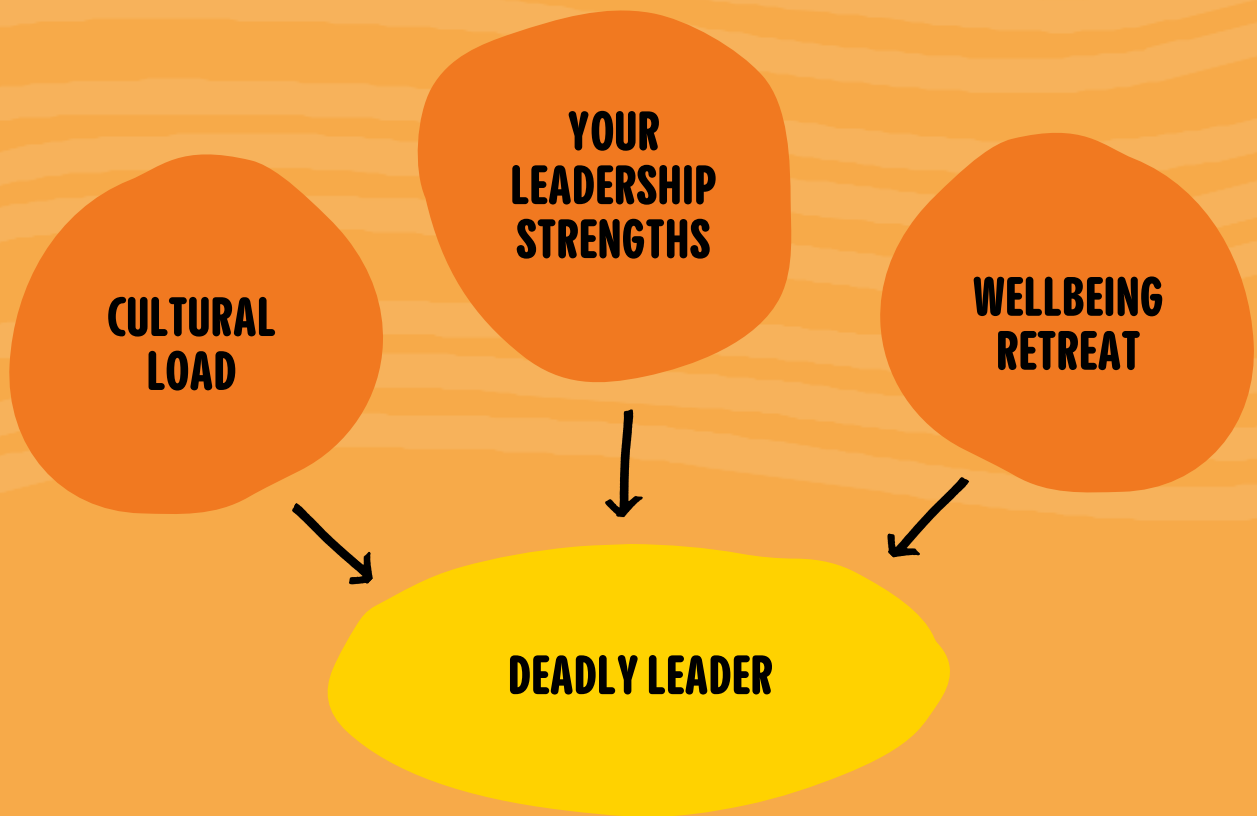

At the end of the year, participants travel to Lutruwita (Tasmania) to attend a 4-day cultural retreat where they will complete the Wukalina Walk wukalinawalk.com.au.

The Gamadji Program includes:

- Media training with the RichmondFootball Club
- Mental health first aid training
- Leadership workshops with Kesh Sharma

Selection

Applicants are required to complete the nomination form on the KGI website, answering key questions about why they would like to participate in the program, and what they hope to learn. Successful applicants will be shortlisted for an interview.

Benefits

The Ambassadors will have the opportunity to work directly with KGI staff and other key stakeholders, creating an important professional network across the industry. Other benefits of the program include:

- Payment of an honorarium for participating in the program
- Opportunities for personal and professional development, including mentoring from KGI and Richmond Football Club staff
- A place on the Leadership Retreat on Palawa Country in Tasmania

KGI is a place of safety and welcomes all young people, regardless of their sexuality, gender or ability.
